

MR. SULLIVAN'S OTHER TRAITS.
A Kind-Hearted Lawyer when Not Occupied with Matters of the King.

BOSTON, March 8.—Admitting his vices, Mr. Sullivan is not a bad fellow at heart, though being large in proportion to his body. There are many good points about him which, although they are commonly known to his friends and acquaintances, not being sensational, no reporter thinks them of enough value to write up. Such is the way of the world, and Mr. Sullivan has no right to complain any more than thousands of better men.

But, as a matter of fact, John L. Sullivan has given away more money in charity, in proportion to his means, than a dozen Vanderbilts or Astors or Goulds. Four or five years ago there was a young man living in the Highlands in this city who contracted consumption, and, being poor, the young man of the neighborhood got up a ball for his benefit, the price of tickets being set at $1 each. Before the ball came off Mr. Sullivan returned to Boston after one of his sparing tours, and, hearing of the project in favor of the sick young man, who had been born from the same parents as himself, did all he could to make it a success, and on the night appointed went to the ball, and handing over twenty-dollar gold pieces, said, "Here, give this to your boy." Sullivan voice. "That's for my ticket."

A few months ago he left his school on Washington street, and, on arriving at New York, was walking down Bowery street, when a poor woman crying beside a heap of furniture piled up on the sidewalk. The champion stopped and inquired of her, as tenderly as a son would, what was the matter. She informed him that she was being ejected from her humble home for non-payment of four weeks' rent, amounting to $12, and that she had no place to go, and, going to her husband, he not only settled for the arrears, but paid a month's rent in advance and gave the woman $20. This act of benevolence, though it had never been seen or spoken to before, has given many of the men who have gained a reputation for philanthropy a wide-sounding popularity.

In addition to his acts of charity, Mr. Sullivan is a member of the Irish Parliamentary Fund that is to be expended to help Parnell win home rule for Ireland. Father J. W. Vaughan sent in $50 for the fund through THE SUN. It represented the contribution of St. Patrick's Benevolent Society of Verplanck, N. Y., and the society members sent their best wishes for Parnell's cause along with the money.

For contributions for the Parliamentary Fund see page 7.

Total. $3,268 74

An enthusiastic old gentleman came into THE SUN office yesterday, and, laying down two $1 bills, said:

"These are for the poor fishermen from a friend of mine, and this, he laid down a silver dollar, "is from another friend of the cause."

Mr. Sullivan sent in $2 for the poor fishermen, and Mr. McCarthy sent $2 more in the same envelope. One dollar came in this letter:

Yours, Friends of the Poor.—Please find enclosed a dollar, which I have made in your noble efforts to save the Irish fishermen from starving. She had saved it for another purpose, but, as you will see, I have given it to the men and their families in THE SUN, she has asked me to let it stand. Mr. Dana, that she may help to keep some money from feeling the pang of hunger.

James C. Clark, N. H.

The sum sent for the fisherman now stands:

DANBURY, March 8.—The Opera House was crowded last night to listen to the lecture of the Rev. Dr. John Dunn, "The Human Irishmen of Our Century." The Rev. Father Dunn introduced the speaker, who greatly interested his audience. The proceeds of the lecture were given to the American Anti-Slavery Society.

Indeed, his generous nature subjects him to a good deal of opposition, but his spirit is as powerful as a kitten, or rather a tiger, who would be if it had a human body, for he is strong both in his play and his bite, and that is why he always wins his battles.

It is composed of extract of mitch, which is wholesome and at the same time palatable. I can therefore highly recommend it for medicinal purposes.
